

THE POLITICAL SYSTEMS OF
THE ISLAMIC REPUBLIC OF PAKISTAN
AND THE ISLAMIC REPUBLIC OF IRAN:
A COMPARATIVE STUDY

BY

DAUD BATCHELOR

A thesis submitted in fulfilment of the requirement for the degree of Master of Arts (Islamic and Other Civilizations)

International Institute of Islamic Thought and Civilization
International Islamic University Malaysia

SEPTEMBER 2011

ABSTRACT

Comparative research was conducted on two Islāmic republics – Pakistan and Iran – which represent models, albeit imperfect, closest to ‘ideal’ modern Islāmic political systems. Their constitutions, and political systems have been assessed to identify strengths, shortcomings and obstacles to becoming true Islāmic states. Both constitutions contain admirable Islāmic provisions but suffer abuse in implementation by elites - feudal landlords and the military in Pakistan, and the conservative ‘Ulamā’ in Iran. To rectify this, Islāmic principles that emphasis social rights of the citizenry to basic housing, food, health, education and justice as well as freedom to “call for the good and forbid the bad” and participate in free elections, termed in the West ‘democratic rights’. In uplifting the “oppressed”, Iran has achieved greater success than in Pakistan although Iran is deficient in civic freedoms. Compared with Iran’s popular revolutionary movement, Zia ul-Ḥaq’s 1980s’ Islāmisation program suffered from a ‘top-down’ approach without alleviating conditions of the oppressed peasants (mustaḍ’afīn). Urgent actions in Pakistan are land reforms and reforming corrupt courts and police in rural areas, ensuring allegiance of the military to civilian rule, and greater efforts on the part of Ulamā’ in building Muslim unity, and enhancing ijtihād skills. The 1973 Pakistan Constitution is now improved through the 18th Amendment 2010 with a parliamentary-style system. With some changes it would represent a good template for many Muslim countries. One proposed amendment would facilitate help to parliamentarians by fuqahā’ in drafting new laws. In Iran the Wilayāt-i Faqīh (Guardianship of the Jurist) system of Ayatullāh Khumaynī, with Supreme Leadership of the State (Faqīh) and its powerful Councils filled by fuqahā’, has considerable merit but transgresses Islāmic principles in the low level of consultation with parliamentary members, lack of accountability, non-acceptance of criticism, and unfair elections. Khumaynī’s original designate to succeed him, Ayatullāh Montazerī, highlighted Khumaynī’s errors, his absolutist view of the Faqīh’s role and the 1989 extra-judicial killings, while calling for constitutional reforms: reducing the Faqīh’s role, while fuqahā’ leaders, he argued, should be publicly elected from candidates vetted by the marāj’-i-taqlīd scholars council.

ملخص البحث

أجريت هذه الدراسة المقارنة علي نظامين اسلاميين هما باكستان و إيران اللتان تمثلان نموذجاً - ولو ناقصاً- هو الأقرب حالياً للنظام السياسي الإسلامي. و لقد شملت الدراسة تقييماً لدستوري البلدين، و كذلك أنظمتهم السياسية وذلك لمعرفة أوجه القوة و القصور والتحديات التي تواجههما بحسبهما دولتان إسلاميتان. يتضمن دستوراهما أحكاماً إسلامية رائعة لكن البلدين يعانيان من إختراقات لبعض حقوق الإنسان من قبل النخبة السياسية، و ملاك الأراضي و العسكر في باكستان، و من قبل العلماء المتشددین في إيران. و لتصحيح هذه الأوضاع يجب التركيز علي المبادئ و الحقوق الإسلامية الأساسية و هي حقوق المواطن من سكن، و غذاء، صحة، و تعليم، و عدالة، و حرية لممارسة "الأمر بالمعروف والنهي عن المنكر" و أن يختار من يمثله في إنتخابات حرة يسميها الغرب "الحقوق الديمقراطية". لقد تفوقت إيران و نجحت أكثر من باكستان في رفع المعاناة عن المستضعفين علي الرغم من أن رصيدها في صيانة الحريات المذكورة أعلاه كان ناقصاً. إذا أجرينا مقارنة بين ثورة إيران الشعبية و برنامج ضياء الحق الذي تمّ عام 1980 في باكستان ، نجد أن هذا البرنامج قد أجرى "من أعلى إلي أسفل" إلا أنه لم ينجح في رفع المعاناة عن كاهل الفلاحين. من الأمور العاجلة في باكستان اصلاح نظام الأراضي وكذلك إصلاح الفساد القضائي بين الشرطة في المناطق الريفية والتأكد من أن ولاء الجيش يكون أولاً وأخيراً للحكم المدني. أما جماعة العلماء المتحاربة فينبغي أن يبذل جهد لتوحيدهم و تطوير ملكاتهم الإجتهدية. إنّ الأسس القانونية لإصلاح الأراضي يجب أن تتضمن تقييماً للمصالح التي حصل عليها الإقطاعيون من الإستعمار الإنجليزي. هذا وقد تم تحسين دستور باكستان وذلك بموجب التعديل الثامن عشر الذي صار النظام به نظاماً برلمانياً وذلك في عام 1973. و مع تعديلات بسيطة يمكن لهذا الدستور أن يكون بمثابة نموذج دستوري لدول إسلامية كثيرة. و في شأن هذه التعديلات يرى الباحث مساعدة الفقهاء للبرلمانيين بكتابة مسودة جديدة. أما في إيران فقد كان للنظام المسمّى "ولاية الفقيه" الذي إتخذه الإمام آية الله الخميني مزايا كثيرة حيث أن مجلسه الأعلى يستمد سلطته من الفقهاء أصحاب الفضل لكنه تعدى على المبادئ الإسلامية لما انطوى عليه من ضعف في الشورى مع أعضاء البرلمان، و انعدام المحاسبة ، و عدم قبول أي ملاحظات نقدية و إجراء إنتخابات غير عادلة. لقد إختار الإمام الخميني في الأصل آية الله منتظري خلفاً له، فكشف عن أخطاء الخميني في نظريته عن ولاية الفقيه و على إرتكاب القتل بدون محاكمة وذلك في عام 1989، و طالب باصلاحات دستورية تتضمن تقليل نفوذ الفقهاء، و ان يتولوا مهامهم نتيجة انتخابات عامة يشرف عليها مجلس مراجع التقليد.

APPROVAL PAGE

I certify that I have supervised and read this study and that in my opinion, it conforms to acceptable standards of scholarly presentation and is fully adequate, in scope and quality, as a dissertation for the degree of Master of Arts (Islamic and Other Civilizations).

.....
Muddathir ‘Abd al-Rahīm
Supervisor

I certify that I have read this study and that in my opinion it conforms to acceptable standards of scholarly presentation and is fully adequate, in scope and quality, as a thesis for the degree of Master of Arts (Islamic and Other Civilizations).

.....
Abdullahil Ahsan
Examiner

The thesis was submitted to the Kulliyyah of the International Institute of Islamic Thought and Civilization and is accepted as a fulfilment of the requirement for the degree of Master of Arts (Islamic and Other Civilizations).

.....
Hassan Ahmed Ibrahim
Dean, International Institute of
Islamic Thought and Civilization

DECLARATION

I hereby declare that this thesis is the result of my own investigations, except where otherwise stated. I also declare that it has not been previously or concurrently submitted as a whole for any other degrees at IIUM or other institutions.

Daud AbdulFattah Batchelor

Signature.....

26 Ramadan 1432 / 27 August 2011
Date.....

DECLARATION OF COPYRIGHT AND AFFIRMATION OF FAIR USE OF UNPUBLISHED RESEARCH

Copyright © 2011 by Daud AbdulFattah Batchelor. All rights reserved.

THE POLITICAL SYSTEMS OF THE ISLAMIC REPUBLIC OF PAKISTAN AND THE ISLAMIC REPUBLIC OF IRAN: A
COMPARATIVE STUDY

No part of this unpublished research may be reproduced, stored in a retrieval system, or transmitted, in any form or by any means, electronic, mechanical, photocopying, recording or otherwise without prior written permission of the copyright holder except as provided below.

1. Any material contained in or derived from this unpublished research may only be used by others in their writing with due acknowledgement.
2. IIUM or its library will have the right to make and transmit copies (print or electronic) for institutional and academic purposes.
3. The IIUM library will have the right to make, store in a retrieval system and supply copies of this unpublished research if requested by other universities and research libraries.

Affirmed by Daud AbdulFattah Batchelor

26 Ramadan 1432 / 27 August

2011

.....

Signature

.....

Date

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Praise be to Allah Most High, who shows whomever He wills the Path to eternal happiness through His guidance, the Qur'ān, and the Sunnah of His beloved Prophet Muhammad Mustafa (Allah bless him and give him peace). This thesis has been made possible through His Beneficence to the author.

The writer wishes to especially thank Professor Dr. Muddathir Abdel-Rahim Professor of Political Science and Islamic Studies, Very Distinguished Academic Fellow at the International Institute of Islamic Thought and Civilisation, Kuala Lumpur, for his truly helpful advice, support, and guidance over five years during the conduct of this research project.

The author has benefited from the use of the extensive library facilities at the University of Queensland where he is an alumnus, and also at Griffith University Islamic Research Unit, Brisbane, where he was a Visiting Fellow from 2009 to 2010.

I am deeply appreciative of support from my wife, parents, and children who stoically accepted my involvement in this extensive project which drew valuable time and funds away from them, insha 'Allāh for the good of the Muslim Ummah.

May Allāh Ta'āla accept this work and distribute any beneficial knowledge in it to the Ummah and the Muslim States.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Abstract	ii
Abstract in Arabic	iii
Approval Page.....	iv
Declaration Page	v
Copyright	vi
Acknowledgements.....	vii
List of Tables	xiii
List of Figures	xv
List of Abbreviations	xvi
CHAPTER 1: INTRODUCTION.....	1
1.1 Statement of the Problem.....	1
1.2 Status of the Study	1
1.3 Literature Review	2
1.4 Research Methodology	7
1.5 Proposed Chapters	9
CHAPTER 2: HISTORICAL ROOTS AND BASIC IDEALS OF THE STATE OF PAKISTAN	10
2.1 Introduction.....	10
2.2 Historical Background	10
2.3 Iqbal, Jinnah and Basic Ideals	11
2.4 Conflicts Arising During Development.....	13
2.4.1 Political Leadership and the Military-Bureaucratic Oligarchy .	13
2.4.2 Struggle between Regional Groups.....	14
2.4.3 Between Rural Landed Interests and Expanding Urban Interests	14
2.4.4 Allocation of Economic Resources	15
2.5 Protagonists in the Constitutional Debates.....	15
2.5.1 ‘The Secularising Elite’	15
2.5.2 ‘The Modernists’	15
2.5.3 Islamic-Minded Traditionalists And Reformists.....	16
2.6 Development of the 1956 Constitution	18
2.7 Development of the 1962 Constitution.....	20
2.8 Lead Up To the 1973 Constitution	21
CHAPTER 3: CONSTITUTIONAL PRINCIPLES AND POLITICAL STRUCTURE OF PAKISTAN.....	22
3.1 Constitution of 1973	22
3.1.1 Constitutional Status of Islamic Law	23
3.1.2 Developments under Zulfikar Bhutto, 1973-1977	24
3.2 Constitutional Change and Islamisation Under Zia Ul-Ḥaq1977-1988	25
3.2.1 Constitutional Changes	25

3.2.1.1 Eighth Amendment.....	26
3.2.1.2 The Working of the Amended Constitution	27
3.2.2 Zia’s Islāmisation Program	27
3.2.2.1 Judicial Reform	29
3.2.2.2 Islāmic Penal Code	30
3.2.2.3 Economic Reform.....	32
3.2.2.4 Educational Reform.....	33
3.2.3 Review of Zia ul-Haq’s Islāmisation Program.....	34
3.3 Constitutional Change and Islāmisation during the Democratic Period, 1988-1999	35
3.3.1 Constitutional Changes	36
3.3.2 Islāmisation	36
3.4 Developments During Musharraf’s Military Regime, 1999-2008	37
3.4.1 Constitutional Changes	39
3.5 Developments During Asif ‘Ali Zardari’s Presidency, 2008-2011	41
3.5.1 constitutional Changes	41
3.6 political Structure Under The Current Amended Constitution.....	42
3.6.1 The Executive.....	42
3.6.2 The Legislature.....	43
3.6.2.1 Process of Law Making	44
3.6.3 The Judiciary	45
3.6.3.1 Role of Islām in the Legal System	45
3.7 Political Parties and Pressure Groups	46
3.7.1 Political Parties	46
3.7.2 Islamic Parties	47
3.7.3 The Military	48
3.7.4 The Bureaucracy	49
3.7.5 Feudal Landlords.....	49

CHAPTER 4: EVALUATION OF THE POLITICAL AND CONSTITUTIONAL SYSTEM IN PAKISTAN AND HOW ISLĀMISATION AND POLITICAL STABILITY MAY BE IMPROVED..... 52

4.1 Performance Indicators of the Political System	52
4.1.1 Islamic Wellbeing	52
4.1.1.1 Corruption Levels.....	54
4.1.1.2 Status of Women	54
4.1.1.3 Status of the Poor and Underprivileged.....	55
4.1.2 Political Stability	56
4.2 Status of Islamisation.....	57
4.2.1 Indications of Islamicity in Pakistan.....	58
4.2.2 Critique of the Islamisation Approach	59
4.3 How Islamisation and Political Stability May Be Improved	62
4.3.1 Relevance of Democracy	63
4.3.2 Pakistan – To be an Islamic State or a Secular State?	65
4.3.3 Apply a More Enlightened Tabligh Approach.....	65
4.3.4 Reform of Land Ownership and the Feudal System	66
4.3.5 Restrain the Military	68
4.3.6 Ensure an Independent Judiciary	69
4.3.7 Eliminate Corruption.....	70

4.3.8 Strengthen Political Parties and Hold Free Elections	71
4.3.9 Fair Representation of Provinces and Ethnic Groups	72
4.3.10 Strengthen the Application of Sharī‘ah Law as Basis of Islamic Governance	72
4.3.11 Strengthen Islamic Unity and Respect for the ‘ Ulamā ’	77
4.3.12 Ensure Social Mobility for the Poor and Underprivileged.....	80
4.3.13 Ensure Protection for Women and Minorities	80

CHAPTER 5: HISTORICAL ROOTS AND BASIC IDEALS OF THE STATE OF IRAN..... 82

5.1 Introduction.....	82
5.2 Iran and Its People	83
5.3 Historical Background	83
5.4 Shī‘ism and Society	85
5.5 Ayatullāh Khumaynī.....	86
5.5.1 Early Life	86
5.5.2 Rise to Prominence	87
5.5.3 Khumaynī’s Writings Relevant to the Islāmic State	89
5.5.3.1 Wilāyat-i-Faqīh (Guardianship or Rule of the Jurisconsult).....	90
5.6 Developments Leading To the Revolution and Its Early Aftermath ...	92
5.7 The Genesis of the 1979 Constitution	95
5.8 Consolidation of Islamic Republic under Ayatollah Khumaynī – 1979 to 1982	97

CHAPTER 6: CONSTITUTIONAL PRINCIPLES AND POLITICAL STRUCTURE OF IRAN 101

6.1 Constitution Of 1979	101
6.1.1 Islāmic Elements	102
6.1.1.1 Islāmic Socialist Elements.....	103
6.1.2 Democratic Elements	104
6.1.3 Other Elements.....	106
6.1.4 Constitutional Crisis – Sharī‘ah Issues and Absolute Mandate of the Jurist.....	106
6.2 Constitutional Changes Of 1989.....	108
6.3 Current Political Structure	110
6.3.1 Islāmic Republic.....	110
6.3.2 The Constitutional Entities.....	110
6.3.2.1 The Supreme Leader (The Faqīh.....	110
6.3.2.2 The President (The Executive)	112
6.3.2.3 The Legislature	113
6.3.2.4 The Judiciary	114
6.3.3 Constitutional Change and Referendum	115
6.4 Political Parties and Pressure Groups.....	115
6.4.1 Power Structure in Iran	115
6.4.2 Political Factions in the Leadership Elite.....	116
6.4.3 Political Parties in Iran	120
6.4.4 The Non-Violent Lay Religious Domestic Opposition.....	122
6.4.4.1 The Iranian Freedom Movement	122

6.4.4.2 The Intellectual Reformers Led by ‘Abdulkarim Surūsh	122
6.4.5 Opposition of the ‘Ulamā’	124
6.4.5.1 The Special Clerical Court	125
6.4.6 External Opposition	125
6.5 Islāmisation in the Post-Revolutionary Period	125
6.5.1 1982 to 1989: Ayatullāh Khumaynī – The Era of Consolidation	127
6.5.1.1 Legal System.....	128
6.5.1.2 Finance and Banking.....	130
6.5.1.3 Women’s Issues	130
6.5.1.4 Minority Issues.....	132
6.5.2 1989 - 1998: Rafsanjānī – The Era of Reconstruction.....	132
6.5.2.1 Women’s Issues	133
6.5.2.2 Minority Issues.....	134
6.5.3 1997 - 2005: Khatāmī – The Era of Reform	134
6.5.3.1 Legal and Women’s Issues	140
6.5.3.2 Economic Issues.....	141
6.5.4 2005 - 2009: Ahmadinejad.....	141

CHAPTER 7: EVALUATION OF THE POLITICAL AND CONSTITUTIONAL SYSTEM IN IRAN AND HOW ISLĀMISATION AND POLITICAL STABILITY MAY BE IMPROVED..... 144

7.1 Performance Indicators of the Political System	144
7.1.1 Islāmīc Wellbeing	144
7.1.1.1 Corruption Levels.....	146
7.1.1.2 Status of Women	146
7.1.1.3 Status of the Poor and Underprivileged.....	147
7.1.2 Political Stability.....	147
7.2 Ayatullah Khumaynī’s Statements On “Islamic Government” Compared With Postrevolutionary Iran.....	148
7.2.1 Enactment of State laws and absolute status of the Faqīh	149
7.2.2 No Excesses of Punishment or Home Invasions in an Islāmīc State.....	149
7.2.3 Safeguards against the Faqīh’s Abuse of Power	149
7.3 Status of Islamisation – A Critique.....	149
7.3.1 Indications of Islāmīcity in Iran	150
7.3.2 The Regime’s Problematical Postrevolutionary Record.....	152
7.3.2.1 Large-scale Killings of Political Prisoners in 1988 and Montazerī’s Criticisms	153
7.3.2.2 Overruling of the Sharī‘ah by the Absolute Faqīh and his Expediency Council.....	154
7.3.2.3 Accountability of the Faqīh and the Public’s Freedom of Expression	155
7.3.2.4 Lack of Separation of Powers and the Special Clerical Court.....	156
7.3.2.5 Failure of the Faqīh to Conduct Shūrā with the People and Scholars.....	157

7.3.2.6 Interference in National Elections and Restrictions Forming Political Parties	157
7.3.2.7 Chain Murders of Dissident Intellectuals and Writers in 1997-98.....	159
7.3.2.8 Extra-legal Attacks by Security forces and Privacy Invasions.....	159
7.3.2.9 Failure to Implement an Islāmic Financial System	160
7.4 How Islamicity and Political Stability May Be Improved.....	160
7.4.1 Changes in the Role of the Wilāyat-ī Faqīh and the Guardian Council	161
7.4.2 Apply a More Enlightened Tabligh Approach to Islāmisation .	163
7.4.3 Disband the Special Clerical Court and Vigilantes, Ensure Security Forces become Apolitical	164
7.4.4 Enhance Inclusiveness of the Citizenry and Pluralism	164
7.4.5 Enhance Popular Participation in Governance.....	165
7.4.6 Permit Reasonably Open and Channels for Expression.....	166
7.4.7 Enhance the Ijtihād Approach to Derive Islāmic Solutions.....	166
 CHAPTER 8: ACHIEVEMENTS AND PROBLEMS OF THE TWO POLITICAL SYSTEMS	168
8.1 The Constitution	173
8.1.1 The Executive.....	174
8.1.2 The Judiciary and Law Finding.....	175
8.1.3 The Legislature, Ijtihād and Law Making.....	176
8.2 The Role of the ‘Ulamā’	178
8.3 Freedoms of Citizens and Free Elections	179
8.4 Social Equity, Justice and Education.....	181
 CHAPTER 9: PROSPECTS FOR POSITIVE CHANGE	183
9.1 Pakistan.....	183
9.1.1 Problems and Issues	183
9.1.2 Opportunities.....	185
9.2 Iran.....	187
9.3. Overview.....	190
 BIBLIOGRAPHY	193
 APPENDIX	209

LIST OF TABLES

Table No.		Page No.
3.1	Parliamentary Elections in Pakistan for the National Assembly	41
4.1	Human Development Index Trends in the Tracked Countries	53
4.2	Survival Statistics in the Tracked Countries	53
4.3	National Corruption Perception Indices, 2005 to 2009	53
4.4	Indices reflecting the Status of Women in the Tracked Countries	54
4.5	Indices reflecting the Status of the Poor, Underprivileged and Children	55
4.6	Human and Income Poverty in the Tracked Countries	56
4.7	Indices Reflecting Peace and Political Stability in Tracked Countries	57
4.8	Questionable Aspects of Islāmisation Approaches Taken in Pakistan	60
4.9	Attributes of Democracy Recognised in Islām and in the Pakistani Constitution	64
6.1	Attributes of Democracy recognised in Islām in the Iranian Constitution	105
6.2	Presidential Elections in Iran	126
6.3	Parliamentary Elections in Iran	126
7.1	Human Development Index Trends in the Tracked Countries	145
7.2	Survival Statistics in the Tracked Countries	145
7.3	National Corruption Perception Index for 2005, 2007, and 2009	145
7.4	Indices reflecting the Status of Women in the Tracked Countries	146
7.5	Indices reflecting the Status of the Poor, the Underprivileged and Children	147
7.6	Indices Reflecting Peace and Political Stability in Tracked Countries	148

7.7	Major Questionable Actions of the Iranian Leadership	153
8.1	Elements of a Good Constitution	173

LIST OF FIGURES

Figure No.		Page No.
6.1	The Political Structure of Iran	117
6.2	The Informal Power Structure	117
8.1	The Islāmic Political System with ‘Fusion of Powers’	170

LIST OF ABBREVIATIONS

Abbreviation	English	Persian/Urdu/Arabic
ANP	Awami National Party
Art.	Constitutional article
AS	On whom be peace	Allahi as-salām
ASJ		Ahl as-Sunnah wa'l Jamā'ah
BBC	British Broadcasting Corporation
BC	Before the Birth of Christ
CCI	Council of Common Interest
CIA	Criminal Investigation Agency
CII	Council of Islamic Ideology
COAS	Chief of Army Staff
CSIS	Center for Strategic and International Studies, Washington, D.C.
CPI	Constitutionalist Party of Iran
CPI	Corruption Perceptions Index (Transparency International)
d.	died
DCC	Defense Committee of the Cabinet
DI	Democracy Index
EIU	Economist Intelligence Unit
ESCAP	United Nations Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific
FATA	Federally Administered Tribal Areas
FSC	Federal Shari'at Court
GDP	Gross Domestic Product
GHQ	General Head Quarters
GNP	Gross National Product
H	Muslim Hijri Calendar
HBFC	House Building Finance Corporation
HDI	Human Development Index
HPI	Human Poverty Index
ICA	Islāmic Consultative Assembly	Majlis-e Shūrā Islām
ICP	Islāmic Coalition Party	Hezb-e motalefeh-ye eslami
ICP	Investment Corporation of Pakistan
IDA	Islāmic Democratic Alliance
IDEA	International Institute for Democracy and Electoral Assistance; Stockholm, Sweden

IFM	Iranian Freedom Movement
IIPF	Islāmic Iran Participation Front	Hezb-e mosharakat-e eslami
IJT	Islāmic Student Movement	Islāmī- Jamā‘at-i-Tulābah
IMF	International Monetary Fund
Ind.	Independent
IPG	Independent Parliamentary Group
IRGC	Islāmic Revolutionary Guards Corps
IRIP	Islāmic Republic of Iran Broadcasting
IRP	Islāmic Revolutionary Party
IRP	Islāmic Republican Party
ISI	Inter-Services Intelligence
JI		Jamā‘at-e- Islāmī
JRM	Militant Religious Scholars’ Association	Jame’-e ruhaniyat mobarez
JUH		Jamī‘at-ul ‘Ulamā’-i Hind
JUI		Jamī‘at-ul ‘Ulamā’-i Islām
JUI-F		Jamī‘at-ul ‘Ulamā’-i Islām – Fazlur Rehmān
JUP		Jamī‘at-ul ‘Ulamā’-i Pakistan
LFO	Legal Framework Order
MDG	Millenium Development Goals
MEK		Mujahidin-e Khalq
MFLO	Muslim Family Law Ordinance 1961
MIRO	Mujahedin of the Islāmic Revolution Organisation
ML	Muslim League
MLR	Martial Law Regulation
MMA	United Action Alliance	Muttahīda Majlis-e-‘Amāl
MQM	National Refugee Front	Muhājir Qaumi Mahaza
MQM		Muhājir Qaumi Movement
MRD	Movement for the Restoration of Democracy
MRM	Combatant Religious Scholars’ Party	Majma’-e ruhaniyun-e mobarez
N/A	Not Available
NA	National Assembly
NAB	National Accountability Bureau
NATO	Northern Atlantic Treaty Organisation
NCA	National Command Authority
NFMI	National Freedom Movement of Iran
NGO	Non-government organisation
NRB	National Reconstruction Bureau
NRO	National Reconciliation Ordinance
NSC	National Security Council

NWFP	North-West Frontier Province	Khyber-Pakhtoonkhwa
OECD	Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development
OIC	Organisation of the Islāmic Conference
PBUH	Peace Be Upon Him
PCO	Provisional Constitutional Order 1981
PDA	Pakistan Democratic Alliance
PII	Political Instability Index
PIF	Pakistan Islāmic Front
PLS	Profit and loss sharing
PML	Pakistan Muslim League
PML-N	Pakistan Muslim League-Nawaz Sharīf
PML-Q	Pakistan Muslim League-Quaid
PMOI	People's Mojahedin Organisation of Iran
PPP	Pakistan People's Party
PPP	Purchasing Power Parity
PPPP	PPP Parliamentarians
PRG	Provisional Revolutionary Government
RA	On whom may Allāh be pleased	Radiallāhu anhu
RCO	Revival of the Constitution of 1973 Order 1985
RGC	Revolutionary Guards Corps
S	Peace (and Blessings of Allāh) Be Upon Him	Salallāhu alayhi wa-salām
S	Thesis section reference
SAB	Sharī'at Appellate Bench
SAVAK	Shāh of Iran's hated intelligence organisation
SCC	Special Clerical Court
SWT	Be Glorified and the Most High	Subhana wa Ta'āla
UNDP	United Nations Development Program
US/USA	United States of America

CHAPTER ONE

INTRODUCTION

Efforts towards developing political, constitutional, economic and educational concepts of Islam and their application in contemporary society are one of the fruits of the emergence of Pakistan as an Islamic state. A comparative study of the constitutions of Pakistan, Iran and Sudan [signify] efforts to translate Islamic ideals and values into contemporary constitutional and policy parameters. Khurshid Aḥmad.¹

1.1 STATEMENT OF THE PROBLEM

The ineffectiveness of governments in many Middle Eastern Muslim countries to address the major issue of unrepresentative autocratic rule has strengthened the yearning of the Ummah for Islāmic political systems. A comparison then of the political systems of two leading Muslim countries that aspire to follow an Islāmic System of Government - Pakistan and Iran - will, it is believed, provide valuable insights. It should be kept in mind that these countries differ strongly in representing the main divide in the Ummah - the Sunnī and Shī'a systems.

1.2 STATUS OF THE STUDY

The objectives of the Study are to investigate:

- 1) The foundations of the political systems in the two countries;
- 2) The structures and working of the systems in the two countries;

¹ Khurshid Aḥmad, "Pakistan: Vision and Reality, Past and Future", The Muslim World, vol. 96, no. 2 (2006): 372.

- 3) The study would highlight some of the practical difficulties in applying theoretical concepts on polity to Muslim communities;
- 4) The study would look at how close each country's system approaches the Islāmic ideal, which will provide valuable pointers towards optimal operational Islāmic political systems.

1.3 LITERATURE REVIEW

There is a vast literature on the political systems of both Pakistan and Iran. A number of comparative political studies of Pakistan and Iran are available. Moḥammed Ayoob's (1979) "Two Faces of Political Islam: Iran and Pakistan Compared"² provided an early account of the experiences with Islāmic political systems of the two countries, albeit from a Shi'ite perspective. One of his statements to be reviewed is that military dictatorships in Pakistan, in particular that of Zia ul-Ḥaq, made use of Islāmisation slogans to "legitimize a patently unjust order and to bolster a regime demonstrably without a popular base." On the other hand, Khumaynī had stressed the need for social justice and radical change.

Another comparative view is that of Professor Abdul Rashīd Moten (1996)³ who provided a succinct analysis why the Iranian experiment in Islāmic government was more successful than in Pakistan:

Unlike Mawdudi, who had no tradition to build on, Khomeini inherited and made use of the reformers' ground breaking tools and ideas, which he supplemented with his own personality and knowledge. Furthermore, unlike Sunni Muslims, a strong revolutionary component has been inherent in the Shiite school of thought. They consider only the Imāms and those whom they appointed to be the legitimate holders of authority. All others are illegitimate, and therefore must be resisted.

² Moḥammed Ayoob, "Two Faces of Political Islam: Iran and Pakistan Compared", Asian Survey, vol. 19, no. 6 (1979): 535-545.

³ Abdul Rashīd Moten, Political Science: An Islamic Perspective, (London: Macmillan Press Ltd, 1996).

Finally, Mawdudi's efforts were consumed at winning the Western educated Muslims to the Islāmic fold, a task which Dr 'Alī Sharī'atī performed successfully for Iran. The masses, in the absence of any meaningful contribution by the 'Ulāmā' to the cause of the movement, remained relatively untouched and as such the Jamā'at could never win mass support in any election. In the case of Iran, the 'Ulāmā' played an important role in galvanising mass support for Imām Khumaynī who himself was an 'ālim of the highest order.⁴

Constitutions of Pakistan and Iran were available at the following websites:

Pakistan - www.pakistani.org/pakistan/constitution/

Iran - www.iranchamber.com/government/laws/constitution.php

For the Islāmic Republic of Pakistan, a review will be made of the roles of the "Founding Fathers," Allama Iqbāl and Quaid-i-Zaman Jinnah. Anwar Ḥussain (1982) provided the following background about the two men who were instrumental in developing the concept of the Nation of Pakistan:

Muhammad Iqbal (1877-1938), the poet-philosopher...began advocating the idea of Muslim nationhood in India soon after the beginning of the [1900s] and proposed a separate Muslim state in 1930. M.A. Jinnah (1876-1948), president of the Muslim League and the great leader of the Indian Muslims, later adopted Iqbal's exposition of Muslim nationalism and provided the negotiating skill, leadership, and mass mobilization that carried this nationalism to fulfillment.⁵

As the effort in Pakistan to develop an Islāmic State in modern times was relatively unique, it will be useful to examine some of the key blueprint documents.

Maudūdī (1974) outlined the main characteristics of an Islāmic State:

- 1) God alone is the real sovereign; all others are merely his subjects.
- 2) God is the real law-giver and the authority of absolute legislation vests in Him.
- 3) An Islāmic state must in all respects, be founded upon the law laid down by God through His Prophet. The government which runs such a state will be entitled to obedience in its capacity as a political agency set up to enforce the laws of God.⁶

⁴ Moten, 138.

⁵ Anwar Ḥussain Syed. Pakistan. Islam, Politics, and National Solidarity, (New York, N.Y.: Praeger Special Studies, 1982), 42.

The role of Islām in the development of the Political System of Pakistan is addressed by John Esposito⁷, Tanzilur Raḥ man^{8,9} and Jeffrey Redding¹⁰. Pakistan has experienced numerous amendments of its Constitutions. Three constitutions have been promulgated since the formation of Pakistan in 1947: in 1956, 1962, and 1973. The history of their development and amendments is well-covered by Ḥamid Khan.¹¹

Fazlur Raḥ mān in his article, “Islam and the New Constitution of Pakistan”, reviewed the development of the 1973 Constitution and highlighted that “this constitution is progressive in its social and economic parts” in providing considerable opportunity for reducing the entrenched power of rulers, landowners and wealthy capitalists.¹² Writer Ziaul Ḥaque (1985) wrote an extremely percipient paper outlining that the real aim of ‘Islāmisation’ has been to “justify the existing economic relationships and the status quo by obfuscating the immediate socio-economic problems of the masses” in favour of Pakistan’s ruling elites.¹³

Redding (2004), focussed on how Pakistan’s Sharī‘ah judicial system that developed during Zia ul-Ḥaq’s rule had constructed an “Islāmic” model of ⁶ Abu’l A‘lā Mawdūdī, Political Theory of Islam, 4th edn., edited and translated by Khurshid Aḥ mad (Lahore: Islamic Publications Ltd., 1974), 19-20.

⁷ John L. Esposito, “Islam: Ideology and Politics in Pakistan”, in The State, Religion, and Ethnic Politics: Afghanistan, Iran and Pakistan, edited by ‘Alī Banuazizi and Myron Weiner, (Syracuse, New York: Syracuse University Press, 1986), 333-370.

⁸ Tanzilur Raḥ man, “Historical Development of the Islamic Provisions in Pakistan’s Constitution”, Hamdard Islamicus, vol. 20, no. 4 (1997): 7-24.

⁹ Tanzilur Raḥ man, “Islamization of Laws”, Hamdard Islamicus, vol. 24, no. 1 (2001): 94-95.

¹⁰ Jeffrey A. Redding, “Constitutionalizing Islam: Theory and Pakistan”, Virginia Journal of International Law, vol. 44, no. 3 (2003-2004): 759 - 827.

¹¹ Ḥamid Khan, Constitutional and Political History of Pakistan, (Karachi: Oxford University Press, 2001).

¹² Fazlur Raḥ man, “Islam and the New Constitution of Pakistan”, in Contemporary Problems of Pakistan, edited by J. Henry Korson, (Leiden: E.J. Brill, 1974), 44.

¹³ Ziaul Ḥaque, “Chapter 5. Islamisation of Society in Pakistan”, in Islam, Politics and the State, edited by Mohammad Asghar Khan, (London: Zed Books, 1985), 114, 121.

constitutional and legal governance.¹⁴ He pointed out that although Articles 227-231 of the Constitution established a “Council of Islamic Ideology” whose general function is to see that “all existing laws shall be brought into conformity with the injunctions of Islām”, its effect is severely limited by provisions of certain articles.

The role of nationalist sentiment in ensuring political stability is discussed by Anwar Ḥussein (1982) who made the point that “The promise of an Islamic state in Pakistan cannot be relied upon to build national solidarity ... Pakistanis are more likely to unite behind a program that aims to establish democracy and freedom, expand intellectual inquiry and knowledge, eradicate hypocrisy and corruption, encourage creativity, increase production, and promote egalitarianism in the name of Islam.”¹⁵ He had argued against the ability of the Pakistani ‘Ulamā’ to ‘rule’ if an Islāmic state is established since they are mostly (i) “considered incompetent to manage worldly affairs”, and (ii) “few... are known for their scholarship in the world of Islam”. It is significant that the outcome of the debate Zia ul-Ḥaq invited in 1980, was that Pakistani leaders including the political Ulamā’, were unanimous in their endorsement of parliamentary government as consistent with Islām

For the study of the background to the development of the Islāmic Republic of Iran, the lectures delivered by Ayatullāh Khumaynī, and collected under the title “Islamic Government,”¹⁶ are essential reading. The lecture series was delivered at Najaf, Iraq in 1970 while Khumaynī was in exile. Three major points emerged from the lectures: (i) the necessity for establishing Islāmic political institutions (ii) the duty of the religious scholars (fuqahā’) to bring about an Islāmic state, and to assume legislative, executive, and judicial positions (doctrine of “Guardianship of the Faqīh”, wilāyat-i-faqīh), and (iii) a program of action for the establishment of an Islāmic state.

¹⁴ Redding, 768.

¹⁵ Anwar, 187-188.

¹⁶ Ayatullāh Ruḥ ūllāh Khumaynī, Islamic Government: Governance of the Jurist, translated by Ḥamid Algar, www.al-islam.org/islamicgovernment (accessed 07/11/2010)

Professor Muddathir ‘Abd al-Rahīm has provided a useful overview of the special conditions in Iran that paved the way for the Islāmic Revolution. He highlighted the role of Jalal Āl-e-Aḥmad and his seminal work, “Gharbzadegi” (translated as “Westoxication”), that “did undoubtedly succeed in shaping and laying some of the most important building blocks of a process that was continued after his death in 1969 by Ali Shariati (1933-1977), Morteza Motahhari (1920-1979), Sayyid Mahmud Taleqani (1910-1979), and Mahdi Bazargan (1907-1995).”¹⁷ Āl-e Aḥmad maintained that the ‘Ulamā’ held qualities that rendered them superior as leaders of socio-political reform: (i) they are men of learning, and (ii) they were mainly drawn from the lower classes so tended to speak the language of the masses, and were more readily trusted by the people.

Development of the Iranian Constitution and subsequent changes are discussed by Said Arjomand¹⁸ and Asghar Schirazi¹⁹. There is a substantial literature on the issues of Iran’s unique parliamentary political system, and the Reform Movement. Meḥdī Moslem’s (2002) “The State and Factional Politics in the Islamic Republic of Iran” provides a clear picture of the main political factions in Iran, which – although supportive of Khumaynī, the revolution, and Islāmic Government – disagree on the precise nature of its political system.²⁰ By placing the word ‘republic’ next to the term ‘Islāmic’, as in Islāmic Republic, on the eve of the revolution, Khumaynī gave two ¹⁷ Muddathir ‘Abd al-Rahīm, Human Rights and the World’s Major Religions, Volume 3: The Islamic Tradition, edited by William H. Brackney, (Westport, USA: Praeger Publishers, 2005), 120-121.

¹⁸ Said Amir Arjomand, Shi’ite Jurisprudence and Constitution-making in the Islamic Republic of Iran (American Sociological Association Conference, 1990).

¹⁹ Asghar Schirazi, The Constitution of Iran: Politics and the State in the Islamic Republic, translated by John O’Kane (London, New York: I.B. Taurus, 1998).

²⁰ Meḥdī Moslem, “The State and Factional Politics in the Islamic Republic of Iran” in Twenty Years of Islamic Revolution: Political and Social transition in Iran since 1979, edited by Eric Hoogland, (Syracuse, New York: Syracuse University Press, 2002), 19-35.