ABSTRACT

This study investigates the present condition of religious co-existence in Bangladesh, a multi-cultural, multi-ethnic yet Muslim majority country in South Asia, on the basis of a sample survey conducted in Satkhira, a southern district of Bangladesh. The study also articulates the concept of religious co-existence, its principles, objectives and methods from a Muslim perspective. The methodology applied in the study was both qualitative and quantitative. Using random sampling, a number of 681 respondents (452 Muslims and 229 Hindus) were secured from a total of 2,000 questionnaires distributed to the two communities in Satkhira in 2012. Based on feedback from the respondents, the data were analysed critically and presented statistically using SPSS. The study then examines Muslim-Hindu relationship due to an allegation that the relationship has not been peaceful. There were claims that the minorities were persecuted, neglected, deprived and tortured by the majority. However, this study found that such claim cannot be supported. In general, 85.8% Muslims and 83% Hindus agreed that there is peaceful religious co-existence between the two communities in terms of recognition and tolerance, mutual understanding and co-operation, equality and mutual benefit, willingness to work for the common good, agreement on non-violence and peaceful existence. In addition, the study has also explored the reasons put forward by the remaining small percentage of respondents (approximately 15%) who felt that there is no peaceful religious co-existence between the two communities. Among the reasons are lack of knowledge about religion and religious teachings, national and international political views on religion and religious adherents as well as politicians using religion for political gain.

ملخص البحث

تبحث هذه الدراسة عن الوضع الحالي للتعایش الديني في بنغلاديش، بلاد الثقافات والأعراق المتعددة، والدولة ذات الغالبية السكانية المسلمة في جنوب آسيا وذلك من خلال الدراسة الميدانية والمساحة العينية في مقاطعة ساتخيرا، المنطقة الجنوبية من بنغلاديش. وتوضح الدراسة مفهوم التعایش الديني، ومبادئه، وأهدافه، وأساليبه من منظور الإسلامی. المنهج الذي يستخدم في هذه الدراسة على حد سواء المنهج النوعي والمنهج الكمي. وتم توزيع عدد 2,000 استبانة بين المجيئين (1,000 للمسلمين و1,000 للهندوس). وكان هناك 452 مجيئاً من المسلمين و229 من الهندوس. بناءً على تلك الملاحظات من المجيئين، قد قامت هذه الدراسات تحليلاً إحصائياً دقيقاً باستخدام SPSS. وبناءً عليه تؤكد العلاقة بين المسلمين والهندوس لإظهار الحالة الحقيقية للتعایش الديني، حيث يتور جدل حول العلاقة بين هذين القومين. وعلاوة على ذلك، فإنه يقال أيضاً إن الأقليات تتعرض للاضطهاد، والإهمام، والحرمان، وتعذب بالأغلبية السكانية. ولكن قد كشفت هذه الدراسة أن تلك المزاعم ليست صحيحة. لأن 85.8 في المائة من المسلمين و 83 في المائة من الهندوس يجمعون على القول بأن هناك تعايشاً سلمياً بين هذين القومين على أساس ست قضايا رئيسية من التعایش مثل الاعتراف والتسامح، والتفاهم المتبادل والتعاون، والمساواة والمنفعة المتبادلة، والاستعداد للعمل من أجل المصلحة العامة، والاتفاق على عدم اللجوء إلى العنف، والتعايش السلمي. بالإضافة إلى ذلك، استكشفت الدراسة أيضاً الأسباب التي طرحتها النسبة لصغيرة المتبقية من المشاركين الذين اختلفوا حول وجود التعايش السلمي الديني بين الطائفتين. ومن الأسباب، عدم معرفة الدين وتعاليمه والآراء السياسية الداخلية والدولية حول الدين والمتدينين، واستخدام الدين من قبل السياسيين لتحقيق أهدافهم السياسية.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

In the name of Allah, the most Gracious, The Most Merciful.

Life as a journey had been long, dark and perilous. The road was fraught with danger from the beginning, the forest was thick, the mountains were high, the darkness was terrifying. Nonetheless, I traversed the path with faith and hope at the end of the tunnel to finally see the light and to find cool water where I could safely drink and bathe, all by the grace of Allah.

First of all, I am truly grateful to Allah the Almighty for giving me the health, strength, patience and courage to miraculously and unbelievably complete this thesis. Without His Grace I would never have successfully completed my PhD.

My deepest honour and thanks go to my respected supervisor Prof. Dr. Thameem Ushama who did not only supervise my research work through his intellectuality and sacrificing valuable time and sound patience but also taught and guided me how to be on the right path and financed me in conducting the field work from the research grant. My special thanks also go to my co-supervisor Asst. Prof. Dr. Maziah Mustaph for her valuable comments, suggestions, corrections and guidance towards completing the thesis. I have learnt and benefited a lot from my respected post-viva supervisor Asst. Prof. Dr. Haslina Ibrahim who was not only my supervisor but also my guardian in finalizing the thesis to make it more valuable and productive.

I would also like to thank the internal and external examiners of this study for their valuable time, suggestions and evaluation that made the study valuable and successful.

My appreciation also goes to the International Islamic University Malaysia for giving me the opportunity to complete my doctoral studies and particularly to its Library, for providing the required data and materials, which made it easy to complete my dissertation.

I am also grateful to Prof. Dr. Ibrahim Zein, who asked me to apply for PhD when I was admitted to the Master's program at IIUM, Prof. Dr. Mohammad Solaiman, Prof. Dr. Yahyear Rahman, Prof. Dr. Ruhul Amin, from Islamic University Kushtia, Bangladesh, my academic guardians, Prof. Dr. Aman Ullah, IIUM; all of them made some useful suggestions and assisted me in other practical/organizational matters involving my PhD work. My heartiest thanks and appreciation go to Prof. Dr. Israr Ahmed Khan, IIUM, who extended his helping hands towards me when I was guideless and helpless and suffering very dire economic situation in Malaysia. May Allah bless them all.

My heartfelt thanks go to all respondents of the survey for giving me their valuable time and patience to fill up the questionnaire. It is impossible to name everyone who helped me tremendously in conducting the field work of my research but Principal Mawlana Md. Shamsur Rahman, Md. Abdul Kabir Khan Zaman, Dr. Ruhul Amin, Md. Yaqub Ali and Md. Abdus Samad Azad were particularly generous with their time and interest. Beside these, Md. Anowar Hussain, a Master's student at the Department of Communication, IIUM also extended help to me whenever I needed it. I would also like to thank Md. Abdul Aziz, the CEO of BIIT, Md. Nayamat Ullah, Asst. Prof. of the University of Chittagong and Afjal Hossain and Md. Ruhul

Amin both of them PhD candidates at IIUM for their valuable suggestions and encouragement to complete the research. I am most grateful to all.

I deeply appreciate the support of my father Principal Mawlana Md. Amin Uddin Gazi, who is not only my father but also always my intellectual and spiritual guide, Mother Saleena Amin, sisters Nurunnahar, Sumaya Khatun and Rumaya Khantun, brothers Md. Abdus Shukur Badshah and Md. Waliur Rahman, brother in-laws Mawlana Abdur Razzak and Nasir Uddin who have been continuing inspirations to me. My appreciation also go to my father in-law Principal Mawlana Md. Abdul Hamid Khan and mother in-law Rahima Khanam for their encouragement, especially du'ā' and other contributions towards my family and my work. May Allah bless all of them.

Finally, my debt is to my dear wife, Asma Khanam, who came into my life in the middle of this study but without her intellectual and moral inspiration, sound patience and constant practical support, I would find it impossible to pursue my research interest at this stage. My last but not least, love and adoration go to my only son Jawad Amin who is a blessing of Allah unto us towards making our life enjoyable and fruitful. He sacrificed a lot as he was deprived from my care and love for a long time during the completion of this research. May Allah accept him as one of His chosen servants.

Thank you all. As this journey ends, a new one begins. Āmīn!

CHAPTER ONE

INTRODUCTION

1.1. BACKGROUND OF THE STUDY

Religious co-existence is one of the key issues discussed by prominent scholars and intellectuals. At the outset, it should be noted that the term “religious co-existence” refers to the idea of two or more persons, groups of people with different thought patterns and religions living with mutual understanding and cooperation in a land or country by mutually sharing the available resources. In short, everyone can exist in society peacefully and practise his/her religious beliefs independently.

It is noteworthy to highlight that religious doctrine influences the way people behave. History proves that the predicament of living within religious diversity, of minority and majority, is not a new phenomenon. Indeed, it is unfortunate that in some instances the minority is being discriminated by the majority. Ironically, all religions teach their adherents to be tolerant, just, fair and respectful to all human beings. Islam, specifically, pays attention towards establishing non-Muslims’ rights and honours them.¹ It declares first the equality of human beings as they are created from one.² It commands its followers to respect and live with others peacefully in both situations, either as a majority or a minority group. For example, in Islam, the Qur’an says: “Allah does not forbid you to deal justly and kindly with those who fought not against you on account of religion nor drove you out of your homes. Verily Allah loves those who deal with equity.”³

² Ibid., 13. Allah says in this regard: “Mankind! reverence your Guardian-Lord, who created you from a single person, created, of like nature, His mate, and from them twain scattered (like seeds) countless men and women....” Sūrah al-Nisā’ 4:1.

Moreover, almost every religious ethics supports basic human values despite significant differences they may have on religious fundamental doctrines and practices. Yet formal differences sometimes may lead to discrimination due to many reasons among which is lack of knowledge and misunderstanding of each other’s religions.

Today, as people are more exposed to living in a multi-religious and multi-ethnic society, the concept of religious co-existence, therefore, has been one of the major concerns among religious scholars and intellectuals. Islam has played a significant role in providing an amicable formula for religious co-existence. It urges people to make a peaceful, just and balanced society where everyone can exist with ‘the Other’ peacefully.

It should be noted here that Bangladesh is the fourth largest Muslim majority country in the world with a population of about 158.57 million,⁴ located in South Asia. There are many religions across ethnicities such as Islam, Hinduism, Christianity, Buddhism, *Upajati*⁵ and so on. Ali Riaz highlights in his work entitled God Willing: The Politics of Islamism in Bangladesh that the non-Muslims who are the minorities in Bangladesh are discriminated and their religions are neglected.⁶ However, others such as Razia Akhter Banu⁷, say that there has been peace in social, political, religious and other aspects of life since the country's independence on March 26, 1971.

As there have been debates about the situation of religious co-existence in Bangladesh, this study wishes to conduct a survey among the people to measure their perceptions on religious co-existence. The survey would also measure the level of Muslim and non-Muslim relationship in Bangladesh and how it affects and promotes religious co-existence.

1.2. STATEMENT OF THE PROBLEM

History speaks that there is good socio-religious relationship among the Bangladeshi people (Muslims, Hindus, Christians and others) since her independence in 1971. However, a question has been raised today as to whether the people there exist peacefully or not. Some people argue that there is peaceful co-existence.⁸ However, others claim that the minority people are persecuted and their religions are neglected⁹ so, there is no peaceful co-existence. What is the reality? What are the reasons behind these arguments and how it can be solved from the Bangladesh perspective?

Religion plays a vital role in the life of the Bangladeshi people. Most of them submit to one of the major religions of the world such as Islam, Christianity, Hinduism and Buddhism. Moreover, Bangladesh can manifest itself as a model nation of amicable Muslim and non-Muslim relationship in promoting religious co-existence in the world today. Since the Muslims are the majority, they are in the position to uphold the true teachings of Islam. This is important in order to prove that Islam and
